

The International Magazine for Luxury Fabrics, Yarns and Fibres

Twist

Issue 41
May 2012

On the horizon

John Smedley looks forward to the next chapter

Cool Wool

Filo trends for autumn/winter 2013/14

Masters of Linen go global

Yunsa: Turkey's worsted fabric giant www.twist-international.com

Published by

Contents

May 2012

Regulares

- 5 Comment
The view from the editor
- 6 News
Global update
- 46 The Markets
Global raw material prices
- 49 Events
Shows, exhibitions and conferences across the world

News analysis

- 12 Sourcing: the new hotspot?
In the search for the next sourcing hotspot many brands fell out of love with China. But as the pool gets smaller, is there still a case for China as the home of sourcing? Charlotte Rogers reports.

Autumn/winter 2013/14 yarn trends

- 16 Skills game
Filo emphasised the quality, ingenuity and innovation of European spinners, alongside an expanded international offering which for the first time included Japan. Janet Prescott reports.

Early stage

- 22 Environmental excellence
There is increasing need for analysis to ensure textile processes are eco-friendly. There is where Enco testing services aims to set the standard. Charlotte Rogers reports.

Wool

- 24 Cool concept
Intended to educate consumers about the natural benefits of wool for the summer season, Cool Wool will launch in the Gulf before moving on to other key wool consuming markets. Charlotte Rogers reports.

Rare & Speciality Fibres

- 26 Diversify to survive
Altifibers has harnessed the expertise of its skilled local workforce in La Paz, Bolivia to extend its business from topmaking and yarn spinning to knitted garments. Our Peru correspondent Francis Rainsford finds out more.

Knitwear

- 28 Lifestyle choice
Evolution is important to luxury knitwear brand John Smedley. The label is open to fresh design collaborations and the potential of seamless knitwear to attract new customers. Charlotte Rogers finds out more.
- 30 Viewpoint: Professor Sandy Black

Linen focus

- 32 Going Global
Masters of Linen is keen to reinforce European linen's 100% traceability - and the quality associated with this origin - to an international market. Charlotte Rogers reports.
- 34 Hemp in the UK
The launch of Camira Fabric's hemp material coincides with the foundation of a bast fibre farming company in the UK.

Worsted fabrics

- 38 Turkish delight
Turkey has cemented its position as one of the global textile industry's most influential players. Yunsa, Turkey's largest manufacturer of worsted fabric, characterises this entrepreneurial spirit. Charlotte Rogers finds out more.

Savile Row spotlight

- 40 Chester Barrie
Having dressed the likes of Cary Grant and Frank Sinatra, Savile Row tailor Chester Barrie is now hoping to attract a new audience with the launch of its Italian shop-in-shop concept. Charlotte Rogers reports.

Accessories

- 42 Inside the weaver's cottage
Returning to her West Yorkshire roots, designer Jane Eastwood is benefitting from her close proximity to the textile industry, as she indulges her passion for woven structure. Charlotte Rogers reports.
- 44 Branching out
Cashmere specialist Joshua Ellis is looking to target new markets with its collection of scarves and throws - and Russia is the first country on the list.

Objects of Desire

- 45 Hand painted scarves
An unashamed fan of all things wool, Emma Bradbury's latest collection of fine Merino knitted scarves feature an unusual hand painted technique.

Features

- 14 Global Consumer Watch
At the recent ASBCI seminar on supply chain challenges, Maureen Hinton discussed the changing landscape of UK retail and post recession consumer behaviour. Charlotte Rogers examines the statistics.
- 20 The Knowledge
Louis de Beer, general manager of Cape Wools SA, discusses the defining characteristics of the South African clip, the impact of RVF and the new opportunities for growers.
- 36 The Twist Interview
Leaving England to see the world, David Eaton developed a passion for textile printing. The founder of Eyefix speaks to Elizia Volkmann about building one of the world's best fabric print archives.

