Cover

Textile dyer and industrial colour manufacturer Kemfine uses an on-site CHP plant, built and operated by energy services company Dalkia, to provide both power and steam for process use at its Grangemouth site. See pages 16–21 for more on energy used by industry.

The other major theme for this issue of Energy World is emissions trading and wider carbon management – see pages 10–15 for articles on the evolution of the EU Emissions Trading Scheme and the Kyoto Clean Development Mechanism.
