

8
A helmet equipped with Simbex's MEMS sensor system

Available 5 October on
THE INSTITUTE ONLINE
www.ieee.org/theinstitute

Innovative Members In the News

IEEE members doing cutting-edge work are often featured in the media. Read about a few who are advancing technologies that can improve the lives of people with health problems.

IEEE.TV UPGRADE

Get the details on a new viewer just launched by IEEE.tv.

GLOBECOM CONFERENCE

Celebrating its 50th year, the conference continues to cover the latest on sensor networking, multimedia communications, optical networks and systems, and signal processing. Check it out from 26 to 30 November in Washington, D.C.

NEWS

8 Helmet Sensors Measure the Hard Knocks

Wireless devices will let coaches pull football players before they suffer brain damage. By Willie D. Jones

10 Fairchild Turns 50

11 COMMENTARY The iPhone's Missing Buttons

12 Robot Cars for the Rest of Us

14 Quantum Tunneling Makes Wireless Fast Lane

17 THE BIG PICTURE A Gripping Prosthetic Hand

OPINION

6 FORUM Readers comment on India's spending woes, the UNIVAC, and Bernoulli's principle.

7 SPECTRAL LINES Commending a green shift in the corporate climate and noting the passing of solar-power pioneer Paul MacCready

60 TECHNICALLY SPEAKING Social networkers are all a-twitter. By Paul McFedries

RESOURCES

51 CAREERS Can a graduate degree turn an engineer into a policy maven? By Prachi Patel-Predd

53 INVENTION The U.S. Supreme Court decides that some things aren't so obvious. By Kirk Teska

55 TOOLS & TOYS A new HP calculator deliberately channels an old one. Reviewed by Kenneth R. Foster

5 THE BACK STORY