

Available 5 April at

THE INSTITUTE ONLINE

www.ieee.org/theinstitute

HISTORY MILESTONE GOES TO REMOTE CONTROL

The IEEE is honoring the development of the first remote control, with a history milestone in Madrid.

IEEE ENGINEERING MANAGEMENT SOCIETY TO BECOME COUNCIL

Read the reasons behind the IEEE Engineering Management Society's plan to become a council.

OCEANIC ENGINEERING CONFERENCE

Find out about the latest research in all areas of oceanic engineering at Oceans07 Aberdeen, to be held from 18 to 21 June in Scotland.

LEFT: Sloba Mitic/iStockphoto;
RIGHT: John MacNeill

NEWS

6 U.S. Earth-Sensing Satellites Left Out in the Cold

Weather prediction and climate monitoring are endangered, a major report finds.

By Sandra Upson

8 Carbon Commerce

10 A Power Plant for the Home

12 Termites in Your Tank

14 THE BIG PICTURE In Iceland, even environmental damage looks pretty.

OPINION

4 FORUM Enjoying the day's newspaper the old-fashioned way.

5 SPECTRAL LINES Blogging—highlights from IEEE Spectrum Online.

56 TECHNICALLY SPEAKING The image of the lonely Web surfer yields to a new buzzword: social networking. By Paul McFedries

RESOURCES

45 CAREERS Want to be your own boss? You can start practicing now, by treating your job as if it were your own business. By Carl Selinger

47 TOOLS & TOYS Next time you fly, stow your tray, put your seat in the upright position, and don noise-canceling headphones. By Stephen Cass

48 BOOKS Douglas R. Hofstadter returns to a theme he touched on in his first book 28 years ago—a mathematical pattern that may explain consciousness. By Stephen Cass

49 PODCAST PICKS

3 THE BACK STORY