COVER STORY

24 TOP 10 TECH CARS

The industry-wide drive toward electric propulsion is making technology more important than ever. Edited by Philip E. Ross & David Schneider

34 SPACE INVADERS

Tiny meteoroids can cause catastrophic failures in satellites and spacecraft, but we don't understand them nearly as well as we should. By Sigrid Close

40 THE MAN WHO MADE A COPY OF HIMSELF

To decipher what makes us human, Hiroshi Ishiguro has created android copies of a child, a woman—and now, himself. By Erico Guizzo

46 OPEN SESAME?

Engineers hope to foster science and peace with the Middle East's first synchrotron. But first they have to build it. By Sandra Upson

UPDATE

- 9 LOFTING A FLYING TWINKIE
The military's stubby space plane will test tantalizingly secret technologies. By James Oberg
- 10 A ROBOT IN THE KITCHEN
- 11 TOO BIG TO HACK
- 12 CHIPMAKERS STACK THE DECK
- 13 HOW TO CURE RANGE ANXIETY
- 14 WETA MODELS THE HUMAN FACE
- 16 THE BIG PICTURE
LEDs light up a stately pleasure dome.

OPINION

- 6 SPECTRAL LINES
Silicon Valley's grief after a tragic plane crash shows how much engineers matter. By Tekla S. Perry
- 8 FORUM
Readers discuss off-grid charging, the market realities of medical-device development, and giving credit where credit is due.
- 23 TECHNICALLY SPEAKING
We think we're paragons of poly-attentiveness, but mostly we're just interrupt driven. By Paul McFedries

DEPARTMENTS

- 4 BACK STORY
IEEE Spectrum journalism intern Anne-Marie Corley test-drives an electric-powered sedan.
- 5 CONTRIBUTORS
- 18 TOOLS & TOYS
With no mirror box or viewfinder, Micro Four Thirds cameras are faster, simpler, and smaller. By Mark Anderson
- 19 BOOKS
Martin Gardner's Mathematical Games are being reprised—all 25 years' worth. Review by Clive Feather
- 20 HANDS ON
Why stop at breadboarding when custom PCBs are easy to design and cheap to get made? By James Turner
- 22 GEEK LIFE
The astronauts who repaired the Hubble last May also wielded a 200-kilogram IMAX camera. Film preview by Susan Karlin
- 56 THE DATA
Maybe Apple should stop making computers. By Steven Cherry
